

Profile

Blend a recipe consisting of a career in education and training, experience as a professional hotel musician topped with a Masters degree in the psychology of background music. These are the ingredients giving Michael Griffin authority status in his field.

As an educator and trainer much of Michael's career occurred in Australia where his outstanding teaching methods resulted in national awards and prizes. This culminated in government recognition through the 'Education and Arts Ministers' Award 2006, and 'National Award nomination for Teaching Excellence 2005', and an entry in the inaugural South Australian 'Who's Who' 2007.

Michael has a performance award in piano from the University of Adelaide and has performed throughout Australia, in some of its top hotels and resorts including world renowned Hayman Island. He is presently performing on a regular basis with the Dubai Philharmonic Orchestra, The Emirates Jazz Ensemble and as a solo artist.

In 2006 Michael completed a Masters of Educational Studies. The focus on background music psychology and how it affects human behaviour is of particular interest to the hospitality and retail industries.

Michael Griffin is available for training and development seminars, conference presentation and consultation.
